

BABIES OWN DAY AT ASBURY PARK

Army of Little Ones in Dazzling Parade Pass in Review Before Queen of the Carnival and Her Court.

50,000 SEE THE BIG SHOW.

Cinderella, with a Gay Retinue. Seen and Admired, While Wee Riders Escort the Infantile Force.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 2.—After repeated postponements the thirteenth annual baby parade, the big event that sets the climax of the summer season at the seashore, was held on the ocean front here this afternoon. Comparatively bright skies that seemed the brighter after four days of true Atlantic northeaster storms greeted the small paraders as they marched down Ocean avenue between the double line of spectators that bordered the thoroughfare and rose banked up high on either side where the grand stands stood, while the blue Atlantic furnished the background for the pageant.

Promptly at the hour named for the start the head of the procession was seen to leave the beach auditorium, at the upper end of the avenue, and head down toward the reviewing stand.

Queen Drives Up.

At the same moment Queen Titania, personated by Miss Ethel Martin Jones, was driven up to the royal pavilion, placed about midway on the line of march. She rode in her state coach, a gilded sea-shell gorgeous with splendid trappings and drawn by four spirited steeds.

Outriders and heralds preceded her, and behind, following at a respectful distance, rode her court ladies, Miss Gertrude Lloyd, of Thomasville, Ga.; Miss H. Estelle Boyd, of New York; Miss Bessie Winsor, of Asbury Park; Miss Jannette Long, of New York; Miss May Mulligan, of Newark; Miss Edna Howard, of New York; and Miss Angeline Holman, of New York.

The city authorities, in sober garb and commonplace carriages, in contrast to royal equipage and court dress of satin and stiff brocade, brought up the rear.

Cheers greeted the little three-day potentate as she proceeded through the crowd of 50,000 spectators to her place on the reviewing stand.

Arrived at the royal pavilion the queen alighted from her coach and walked to her place between lines of wee riders from Ocean Grove standing stiff and straight at "present," while the populace bared their heads in reverence to their sovereign.

Woe Troops in Line.

Titania's arrival was well timed. For scarcely had she and her attendants taken their places about the throne when the division of rough riders which led the parade came along, marching in step with the beach band in a nearby stand.

Following the tiny soldiers rode Grand Marshal Wesley B. Stout, of this city, and behind him a double line of the principals in the parade reached to the doors of the auditorium where the children assembled to form into line. They walked on two parallel strips of burlesque laid down the roped-off middle of the street, while a wall of blue-coated policemen kept the crowd back. From the auditorium the line of march led south to the Asbury avenue pavilion, where the line turned and countedermarched to the place of starting.

The parade took an hour to pass the reviewing stand, where the judges in the various divisions scrutinized and took notes. As the paraders passed on the way back the judges notified the winners and pinned colored ribbons to their costumes.

Judges Watch.

The division made up of baby coaches and go-carts and captained by Mrs. E. B. Reed, of Asbury Park, came first. It contained many handsomely decorated carriages. Among the winners in this division were: Mrs. A. K. Hall and Miss Emma and Helen Friedman, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Kenneth L. W. of Plainfield, N. J.; and Mrs. Charles Hogan, of New York.

The express wagon division, Mrs. Joseph W. Masters, of Brooklyn, captain, was next in line. The wagons were drawn by youngsters and decorated in elaborate designs. Among the judges and aides were Mrs. T. Broome, of New York; Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Newark; and Mrs. P. O'Brien, of New York.

Other features in the line were: Novelty division, made up of Mother Goose characters and the like, and captained by Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Newark; and a division of baby coaches, captained by Mrs. E. B. Reed, of Asbury Park.

Prizes were offered in two special classes—the baby coming from the greatest distance and to twins and triplets making the best approach.

Prominent in the line was Cinderella (Miss H. Estelle Boyd) with a retinue that was quite dazzling.

Little Ones from New York.

New York City was represented in the line of march by the following: Ada, Gertrude and Sidney Furgatch, Florence Commercial, of New York; Mrs. W. M. Maher, Virginia Kurtz, Joseph and Margaret Stronach, Harriet Cary, Holly Bridges, May Crowley, Kenneth L. W. of Plainfield, N. J.; and Mrs. Charles Hogan, of New York.

DOCTOR ACCUSED OF MURDER ENDS LIFE

Rich Physician, Charged with Death of Bride on Whom He Operated, Cut His Arteries in Cell.

MENDOTA, Ill., Sept. 2.—Rather than face the charge of murder of Mrs. Leroy Smith, a bride of three weeks, Dr. Frank English, one of the oldest and most respected practitioners in this city, committed suicide in the county jail. He cut the arteries of his wrists with a small penknife that was overlooked when the Sheriff searched his clothing.

Mrs. Smith died in St. Mary's Hospital at La Salle after an operation. It is alleged that on her deathbed she accused Dr. English and Mrs. Edward Mowery, who is now under arrest in Ottawa. The coroner investigated and at once swore out a warrant for Dr. English.

He was seated in his beautiful home here, surrounded by his wife and grown daughters, when arrested. He almost collapsed and Mrs. English fainted. He went to jail without a word and did not attempt to secure bail, although he had a fortune of $100,000 and many wealthy and influential friends.

Late at night the Sheriff went into the jail to see if the doctor wanted anything and found his dead body on the floor of his cell. He had cut the arteries of his wrists and then attempted to write a note. Death came when he had written but three words.

Mrs. Smith was only eighteen years old. Her parents are prominent in La Salle and objected to her marriage to Leroy Smith. She was taken to the hospital on Sunday morning and died there the same night. The direct cause was blood poisoning, which it is charged, was brought on by a criminal operation.

Among the aides in the novelty division, which had fourth place in the line, but first in popular approval, were Miss Jessie Castell, of Brooklyn, and Gertrude Love, of New York. William Ullman and W. E. Wilkinson, both of New York, acted as judges, and Ira E. Whyte as captain.

The floats, which came next, were, of course, the most interesting. Fred J. Hepper, of Asbury Park, was captain, and John H. Richards and R. F. Redell, of New York, judges.

Other features in the line were: Novelty division, made up of Mother Goose characters and the like, and captained by Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Newark; and a division of baby coaches, captained by Mrs. E. B. Reed, of Asbury Park.

MILES COMMENDS PULITZER SCHOOL

Declares Course in Journalistic Study Will Be Benefit to Young Men Planning for Newspaper Work.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles, the retired head of the United States Army, who has just returned from the G. A. R. encampment at San Francisco, said to-day that in his opinion the proposed Pulitzer School of Journalism was a splendid idea and should be a great success.

"The profession of journalism," said Gen. Miles, "is one of the noblest callings, and the men in it cannot know too much. No matter how comprehensive the scope of the curriculum of the modern university, it lacks much that would be of vast benefit to the young men choosing journalism as a career, and I have no doubt that the deficiency can be supplied in the curriculum of the Pulitzer School of Journalism."

Gen. Miles said that on his way to San Francisco he had met four of his old staff officers whom he had not seen since Appomattox. He met these old comrades in Chicago and journeyed with them to San Francisco.

"I had a delightful time," said the General, "and enjoyed myself very much. I had a chance to see Gen. Miles, and he thought Gen. Young was an ideal man to have command of the army."

Homeward is setting the tide of travel now that the vacation season is nearing an end, and it is estimated by the various transportation companies that no less than 35,000 separate pieces of homeward-bound baggage were handled in this city yesterday. To be exact, the figures as the several transfer companies estimate them, are these:

New York Central, 6,574.
New Haven lines, 5,492.
Erie Railroad, 4,132.
Long Island Railroad, 3,441.
Pennsylvania Railroad, 7,423.
Other lines, 16,000.

This makes an exact total of 34,768. The figures are not guaranteed, but the two principal express companies—Westcott's and Dodd's—figure this way. The day was a record breaker for Sept. 1, as last year less than 20,000 pieces of baggage were handled on the returning trains.

School Opens Earlier.
As school begins practically a week earlier this year that may be one reason why the homeward tide has set in so soon, although the cold weather and rains of the past few days may be a potent factor.

Many Out-of-Town Guests.

At all events, there have been many more out-of-town guests this year than in the past three. The summer resorts do not report any such tremendous exodus as the baggage returns indicate, so therefore there must have been a greater number staying a longer time than in years.

If you are coming home this week, or even next, pack enough things in your hand baggage to keep you going for at least three days. Your trunk

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain opium, or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Man Insisted He Had Right to Walk on Railroad Tracks.

Eight men were arrested yesterday by the police of the Kingsbridge station for walking the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in Spuyten Duyvil.

Court to-day seven of the prisoners expressed repentance and were discharged. One, who said he was William Warner, having no home, told Magistrate Zeller that he had a perfect right to walk on the tracks.

"You have no right to walk those tracks," said the Magistrate.

"Oh, yes, I have," replied the prisoner, "but as things are going now I suppose one won't be allowed to walk along the highways."

For his statement Warner got three months on the island.

Simpson Crawford Co.

Every School Boy or Girl Can Be Correctly Outfitted Here.

Many hundred thousand children await the clang of the school bell. Young America goes back to books and "learnin'." Quite an army, isn't it? Think of the preparation—the things to wear, which are as essential as the books to learn from.

They are taught why the earth revolves on its axis; why rivers run down instead of up; laws of gravitation, hygiene and health; principles of geometry and arithmetic and countless other things.

But the clothes they wear—why not something about them and where best to be supplied?

The Simpson Crawford Co. store is a long way ahead of the procession—in variety, in style, in price.

The youngster whose outfit comes from here goes into school with the assurance that he or she is correctly dressed. Their apparel will give the greatest possible service—and their papas and marmas will have saved a pretty penny on the cost.
